

3.2 The terms of reference for the panel were agreed as:

- To gain an understanding of the nature and prevalence of sexual violence, particularly in the Brighton and Hove context
- To identify what support services for victims of sexual violence are already available to Brighton and Hove residents
- To identify where there are gaps in the provision of support services
- To identify what referral routes and pathways between different statutory agencies and support services currently exist, and how these can be developed further to increase support to victims of sexual violence
- To investigate ways to encourage a co-ordinated and holistic approach to the provision of support services for victims of sexual violence
- To investigate ways to encourage a more strategic and integrated approach to planning and commissioning support services
- To identify ways to ensure that support services can be sustainably resourced
- To identify ways to consult with service users about the support services they are accessing

3.3 The panel report is appended to this paper.

3.4 The report identifies four recommendations, A – D (p 10) which are about putting in place joint strategic commissioning arrangements across the Community Safety Partnership and which are integrated with those for domestic violence. Those arrangements are now in place. A single lead commissioner for community safety is developing further the joint commissioning processes already in place for sexual violence, informed by the outcome of the Intelligent Commissioning Pilot on domestic violence.

3.5 There are a number of recommendations which are directly in relation to the development and funding of support and other services. They are:

- A dedicated programme of support services for young women aged 16 -25 (R.1)
- Group counselling services for men who have unwanted sexual experiences (R.2)
- A Health, Independent Domestic Violence Advisor in A&E in Sussex County Hospital (R.3)
- That funding (by all statutory agencies) for local independent support services be awarded funding for a three to five year period (R.19)
- That all statutory agencies (with health agencies particularly identified) consider how they support and provide mainstream funding for sexual violence services including local independent support services (R.20 & 21)

3.6 Joint funding and commissioning decisions for the current year have enabled the establishment of a Sexual Assault Referral Centre for Sussex and new local rape crisis, support and counselling service. Although capacity is limited by available funding, that local provision includes a dedicated support service for young women (16 – 25 age group) by a staff member with appropriate expertise. A Health, Independent Domestic Violence Advisor located in A&E is funded for the current year by the PCT. Group counselling services for men are not funded in the current year. That recommendation will be considered in the joint commissioning decisions for 2011 and beyond. While the benefit of funding decisions and allocations for a three to five year period is recognised, it is not yet possible to indicate whether or not that arrangement can be achieved within financing and new joint commissioning arrangements.

- 3.7 There are three recommendations (R,6, 15 and 18) which are about building the capacity of local independent support services and establishing networks and partnership support structures between statutory and third sector service providers in order to better develop strategic approaches and services which meet local need. Recommendation 7, proposes that strengthening the referral pathways to (and from) the Sexual Assault Referral Centre (SARC) is a high priority.
- 3.8 These recommendations are being taken forward in several ways. The SARC has now completed its first year of operation overseen by a management and commissioning Board made up of representatives from police, health and community safety services across Sussex. An Operational Group is established which brings together the third sector service providers from Brighton & Hove and Sussex, to work alongside the statutory forensic and clinical service providers. Progress in developing this complex service is very good and reports to each meeting of the management Board assist in joint problem and service development.
- 3.9 Regular meetings of the network of agencies in the women's services sector, facilitated and chaired by the Director of Probation Services and Head of Community Safety is one way in which support is provided and the capacity of those organisations is developed. Outside of those meetings, senior Probation officers and those within the Partnership Community Safety team provide practical assistance with the tasks associated with funding bid preparation, the development of protocols, procedures, monitoring returns and so on. Meetings of an 'expert reference group' for Brighton & Hove, are allowing a wider range of statutory and third sector organisations to consider progress on taking forward all the outcomes that are being sought to reduce sexual violence in the City.
- 3.10 Recommendation 8 seeks the commissioning of a feasibility study for the introduction and funding of an independent 24 hour signposting and support service. That recommendation is to be considered by commissioning partners. If it were to be taken forward, the service would be a Sussex wide provision.
- 3.11 Two recommendations (R.10 & 11) are to be taken forward within proposals currently being considered, to increase workforce skills of frontline staff to recognise, risk assess and respond appropriately to those who are experiencing domestic or sexual violence. The recommendations in the Scrutiny report are specific about promoting staff training to enable appropriate responses and seeking to ensure that all women who come into contact with front line staff and professionals are informed about the independent, women only specialist support services in the City. Those recommendations are also to be considered within potential commissioning recommendations and work plans for improving workforce skills.
- 3.12 Recommendations 12 and 16 seek to standardise recording and monitoring of cases of sexual offences across the city. The issue arises because although that measurement is incorporated within NI 26, no national definition is offered against which monitoring can take place. We therefore monitor police recorded sexual offences as a measure of what is happening in the city and information is included within regular performance reports to the Safe In The City Partnership, Community Safety Forum and elsewhere. Information from the SARC and local support services together with strategic assessments of rape and other sexual offences is also now providing the basis of analysis which informs interventions across Sussex.

- 3.13 Recommendation 17 proposes that support is given to independent support services and organisations who represent vulnerable adults to enable them to work together to develop appropriate services which meet their needs. Those discussions with Adult Social Care will be taken forward within the partnership work to develop commissioning recommendations.
- 3.14 Recommendations 4, 5, 9, 13 and 14 are in relation to services for children and young people. In summary they are:
- That the specialised therapeutic support service for children and young people affected by sexual violence be reviewed as a matter of high priority in order to ensure that their needs are met
  - That the specialised support services for children who display sexually harmful behaviour be reviewed as a matter of high priority to ensure that their needs are met
  - That Children's services reviews and considers how it responds to and supports children and women from families where domestic and sexual violence has taken place in order to ensure a holistic approach to such cases is taken
  - That greater evidence is placed on positive perspectives of masculinity and promoted to young people
  - That a programme of prevention and early intervention be developed to meet the needs of a range of individuals in a range of different contexts. As part of this, education and awareness raising programmes about what healthy relationships are and consist of, should also be undertaken
- 3.15 The Children's Trust Board is responsible for the city's Children and Young People's Plan which includes a Strategic Improvement Priority to 'strengthen safeguarding and child protection, early intervention and prevention'. The Plan highlights domestic violence as part of a commitment to commission targeted services to protect the most vulnerable groups of children and young people at risk of harm, abuse or neglect including those at risk of or involved in sexual exploitation. The recommendations from the scrutiny review of sexual violence, highlight further key strategic issues in relation to services for children and young people. These and related recommendations from the Youth Services Review, Staying Safe Sub Group and domestic and alcohol commissioning pilots, will be considered by the Children's Trust Board within the new partnership commissioning and delivery arrangements.
